A: The error occurs with "System.Windows.Forms.Toolkit.RegisterXControl()" method. Reported by W3Schools: "The function you are using does not work because of the following reason: The security settings of your browser prevent the execution of remote files such as a remote image. " In this case, you just need to change your Internet Settings to allow "Access to file locations" in "Home" > "Security" in Windows XP > Custom Level. If this method does not work, try to download the file and save it in your local folder. After that you can execute it as usual. You can do this using: File -> Open and then Save the file to your local folder using the file explorer. Q: How to find all the common data between 2 tables I have two tables Table1 with columns user_id, article_id, action Table 2 with columns user_id, action_id, action_date Given the user_id's from Table1 and action_id's from Table2, the goal is to find all the common data between them. For example, if user_id = 100 and action_id = 110 in Table1 and action_id = 112 in Table2, then return the action_date. A: SELECT * FROM table1 t1 INNER JOIN table2 t2 ON t1.user_id = t2.user_id WHERE t1.action = t2.action Waterborn Emergency Group Having handled over 200 water-borne illnesses over the years, we've been there and we're ready to go.
